

2.11.2019

Board room (Sala de consiliu) Faculty of Philosophy, Splaiul Independenței 204

09:00 – 09:20 Coffee

Chair: Oana Matei (ICUB Humanities)

9:20 – 10:00

Aleksa Čupić (University of Belgrade)

On the deflationary interpretation of substance in Locke's metaphysics

10:00 – 10:40

Augusto Nicolas Dolfo (University of Padova)

David Hume and the question of the limits of consent or the challenge of political authority and obligation moral of the citizen

10:40 – 11:00 Coffee break

11:00 – 11:40

Aleksandra Davidović (University of Belgrade)

Who speaks for Hume? The question of Hume's presence in the Dialogues concerning natural religion

11:40 – 12:20

Shun Iizuka (University of Tokyo)

Explanation and Justification in Hume's Causal Theory: if Hume is a reliabilist, what does he say about causal beliefs?

12:20 – 14:30 Lunch

Chair: Grigore Vida (ICUB Humanities)

14:30 – 15:10

Lauren Slater (Birbeck, University of London)

Signs established by nature: occasional causation, cartesian sensory ideas & the language analogy

15:10 – 15:50

Diana Stere (University of Bucharest)

Clavius, Descartes & the “new” hierarchy of the sciences

15:50 – 16:10 Coffee break

16:10 – 16:50

Daian Bica (University of Bucharest)

The metaphysical place of the principles in Newton’s System of the World

16:50 – 17:10 Coffee break

17:10 – 18:10

Keynote lecture

Andrew Janiak (Duke University)

The early modern philosophical canon: the curious case of Madame du Châtelet

